

INSTRUCTION PRACTICES

The best available strategies and methods for bringing about learning shall be utilized by the Pitt County Schools.

The school system is committed to the general principle of meeting the individual needs of students insofar as limitations allow. The instructional staff shall keep abreast of promising instructional ideas and practices developed in schools throughout the nation and shall apply here those which have the apparent potential for improving the learning program.