

Elmhurst Elementary Remote Learning Plan

Purpose:

This plan outlines expectations and procedures for students, families, and staff on days when Elmhurst Elementary transitions to unexpected remote learning (such as during inclement weather or other emergencies). On days in which we know far enough in advance, we will send home paper packets of worksheets.

Communication

- Families will receive notification of the remote learning day through the district's standard communication channels (phone, email, social media, dojo).
- Teachers will post assignments and directions on ClassDojo by 9:00 a.m. on the remote learning day.
- Families should check ClassDojo for updates and instructions specific to their child's class.

Instructional Expectations

- No new instruction will take place during unexpected remote learning days.
- Teachers will provide practice and review activities that reinforce skills already taught in class.
- Activities may include reading, math practice, writing prompts, or other review-based learning tasks.
- As we do not send devices home, assignments and activities will not include the use of a device (or will minimally include the use of a device) for completion.

Student Participation

- Students are encouraged to complete the posted activities to stay engaged and maintain their learning progress.
- There will be no penalty for students who are unable to complete assignments due to technology, internet access, or family circumstances.
- Teachers will review completed work once students return to school.

Goal:

Elmhurst Elementary aims to provide consistent communication and meaningful practice opportunities for students during unexpected closures, while maintaining flexibility and understanding for families.
